

The Profession of Medical Assisting...

...is dynamic and constantly changing, just as all health care professions do. The majority of Medical Assistants are employed in Physician's offices or Patient Clinics. Job requirements vary depending upon state laws, location, and preferences of the employer physicians. Most NCMA positions include both clinical and administrative responsibilities.

Medical Assistants take vital signs, perform EKGs, and record patient histories, as well as handle telephones, schedules, and perform many other crucial medical office functions.

NCCT is a premier testing service that meets the needs of employers, schools, and students throughout the U.S. and abroad.

Is Certification Important...

...to your employer?

That is a preference of each organization, but many make certification a requirement for employment—or may give hiring preference to applicants who are certified over those who are not.

...to your patients?

Have you ever been sick? Has any member of your family been sick? Your Mother? Father? Spouse? Child? Wouldn't you want any health care worker taking care of them to be certified?

How do I stay current?

All it takes is 14 clock hours of NCCT continuing education to remain current in your certification each year. At a cost of less than $6 per contact hour, you can complete your CE in the privacy of your own home. The NCCT renewal process is that easy! That's why more than 150,000 people choose NCCT!
